TEN THEATERS FACE STRIKE

37 BOARDS RUN
PUBLIC PARKS
IN COOK COUNTY

Single Control Is Urged by Experts.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In Cook county there are 37 distinct park boards.

The situation is such that Frederick M. McDonald, reference librarian, in a recent report asserted: "Park administration in Chicago and Cook county presents an extraordinary list of separate authorities, unparalleled in this or any other country."

Of the 37, 19 boards operate outside of the city of Chicago in cities, villages, and towns of this county. Reference is made to them only to indicate the need, and this recital will not be further concerned with them.

31 Park Officials Here.

With Chicago, a total of 121 public bodies have a finger in the operation of parks or playgrounds. Ninety of them are elected and 31 are appointed.

However either are elected or appointed to deal with parks as their own business, while 27 others act in office in charge of recreation work. The 31 have no other official function than to deal with parks, while park and playground management on the other 27 is incidental to other official obligations.

Principals of the agencies above are principals of management. Every one of the 37 south park commissioners with its five members, the 19 Lincoln park boards with its members each. The Lincoln park and the west park commission appointed by the governor, and the south park commissioners appointed by the local circuit court judges. All three of these park districts were established in 1869.

15 Other Park Districts.

There are 15 other park districts, each with five commissioners sent by the voters of the respective districts. With one exception, they are a growth of the last 15 years, being organized under an enabling act passed by the legislature in 1895.

The names of those districts, the year of organization of each, and the tax applicable for each this year are:

Pola Remains Unseen.

Pola Negri remained unseen in her compartment in another part of the train, and was not in evidence either when the funeral train pulled in from New York, or for some time later.

Miss Negri has lost at least fifteen pounds since the death of Valentino, whom she claimed as her man, according to Mr. Ulman.

"Did Valentino ever speak to you of his engagement to Miss Negri?" he was asked.

"No, never directly," he answered. "although I was his intimate friend, and he told me practically everything that concerned him. But they were constantly together—and I inferred that they were engaged from his conversations."

Michael Romano, assistant state's attorney, who left for New York immediately on hearing of the death of Valentino, his close friend, accompanied the body to Chicago, but said he would not go west to Hollywood until October, when he will attend to some of the affairs of the estate at the request of Rudolph's brother, Alberto Guiglione. As the Chicago representative of the national memorial association that had been formed, Mr. Romano will also inspect drawings of a proposed monument at that time.

Cemetery Not Picked.

Guiglione also kept to himself during the four hour stay in Chicago. No decision had been made as to where his son's remains will be buried.

So Chicago looked its last upon the funeral cortège of the man who through so many thousand feet of silver screen romance had galloped, Arab clad, across desert wastes and rescued the current damsels in distress.

MARK TIME IN STRUGGLE OVER LANDIS AWARD

Both the Landis award contractors and officials of the Chicago Building Trades council awaited further development yesterday and took no action toward settling the strikes called on the Da Bell, Jewelers, and Morton buildings.

Strikes on the three buildings were called during the last ten days by the trades council in an effort to restore closed shop conditions in the building industry. At present thirteen or fourteen trades are engaged on Landis award work on an open shop basis. To date several replacements on the jobs with nonunion men have been made by the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award.

Henry Erickson, the contractor who is supervising the construction of the Morton building, last night declared the Building Trades council has broken its word by calling a walkout on his work.

MYSTERY WOMAN, ASKING DIVORCE, SCORNS ALIMONY

Mystery was cast yesterday over the identity of Mrs. Lillian C. Richards, who filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court against J. De Forest Richards, charging desertion. Her attorneys, the law firm of Tenney, Hart, and Associates, admitted that both complainant and defendant were members of a well-known family, but refused to give any further information.

She has abundant means of her own to support herself and an 11 year old daughter, Elizabeth. Mrs. Richards stated, and she declared she wanted no alimony.

Mrs. Richards' petition was drawn up by the law firm of James and George Dayton, O., and filed through the local court. She was married in 1908 and her husband left her in February, 1920, her bill said.

Mexico City, Sept. 3.—Minister of Interior Tafta announced today that a bill regulating the number of priests in a given territory would be presented to President Calles' next week for his revision and approval before being sent to congress. WORTH $40,000, BUT WIFE KEEPS IT, HE CHARGES

He's worth $40,000, but his wife guards it all and won't permit him to have pocket money, Charles Javier, 45 years old, 1822 Avenue J, told Judge Joseph E. Dugan yesterday. He was granted an injunction restraining Mrs. Rose Javier from drawing the funds from a safe deposit box in the Calumet National bank.

Javier said he accumulated the $40,000 during the thirty years he conducted a milk business and chicken farm. Between times, he worked in the steel mills, and always intrusted his earnings to his wife, he said.

Then, last Thursday, when he wanted money, his wife refused him any, he declared.

SPECIAL JURORS INDICT 32 FOR ELECTION FRAUD

McDonald Asks Further McSwiggan Inquiry.

Elections in Chicago have been made a humiliating farce because of obsolete methods of choosing judges and clerks of election and of counting ballots, the August special grand jury declared yesterday. It reported to Chief Justice Thomas J. Lynch of the Criminal court. It recommended changes in the election laws and the method of registering voters.

McSwiggan has returned charging thirty-one judges and clerks of election with conspiracy to make false returns. In connection with the indictments the jurors who were under the direction of Special Prosecutor Charles A. McDonald declared that they found extensive frauds had been practiced in all wards of the city and in the suburbs. Some election officials were just as crooked in Rogers Park and on the Gold Coast as in the river wards and colored districts, the report stated.

McSwiggan Case Still Mystery.

No progress was made in the investigation into the murder of Assistant State's Attorney William M. McSwiggan. Prosecutor McDonald admitted he was disappointed about that phase of the inquiry, but on the strength of information that he might be obtained in September, Chief Justice Lynch, after some hesitation, ordered a new special grand jury to appear Sept. 8.

At that time, Judge William J. Lindsey will be the new chief justice and it will be up to him to decide whether a new jury shall be sworn in. There were rumors that because three special grand juries had failed to solve the McSwiggan case, he might refuse to swear in another jury. About 140 election officials have been indicted by the juries.

Special Juries Cost $30,000.

The special grand juries of June, 1920, and July have cost more than $30,000, it was estimated. There remains of the original fund set aside for the inquiry about $15,000. The funds might be exhausted before another jury could complete its work, it was pointed out.

Without making comment, the jury's report appended these statistics to its report:

"Murdered in Cook county from 1920 to 1926, 1,240; slayers executed, five."

"Murdered during the first eight months of 1926, 235; slayers executed, five."

Wants Central Registration.

The jurors recommended that there be a registration of a city's voters every four years at some central point. Such a procedure was voted by the legislature, but Gov. Frank O. Lowmyer, the incoming Governor, has admitted that both complainant and defendant were members of a well-known family, but refused to give any further information.

She has abundant means of her own to support herself and an 11 year old daughter, Elizabeth. Mrs. Richards stated, and she declared she wanted no alimony.

Mrs. Richards' petition was drawn up by the law firm of James and George Dayton, O., and filed through the local court. She was married in 1908 and her husband left her in February, 1920, her bill said.

LABOR PLEDGES ALLEGIANCE TO UNIONS MONDAY

TRY COMPROMISE TO PUT 43 BACK IN OAK PARK HIGH

Lewis' Message Speaks of Workers' Trials.

On Labor day, Monday, labor will pledge its allegiance to the fundamental principles of the trade union movement in America, according to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, in his annual Labor day statement.

Loyalty to the ideals of collective bargaining, fair wages, better home life, greater opportunity for higher education, the square deal, development and progress, are enshrined in the hearts of Americans and women," asserted the head of the miners' union in his message.

Labor's Ranks Still Hold.

"Throughout the last year all of these ideals have been assailed by those who would do them violence and destroy the workers' rights. The battle has been fierce and the sacrifice great, but labor's ranks are still holding tight against every attack. Let us all hope that the coming year will nurse and develop good will in industry and that a spirit of real fellowship may take the place of distrust, misunderstanding, and bitterness.

"One of the most precious gifts that the next labor year could possibly bring to industry would be a realization on the part of all that their contracts and agreements will be observed.

"Unfortunately there has been too general a tendency upon the part of a certain type of employer to scrap their agreements with labor, cast them in the waste paper basket, and openly declare that they will not live up to their contract and written word.

Battling Plans Delayed.

The board president said that plans had been made to spend $500,000 for a new fieldhouse across the street from the high school and that another $500,000 was to be used for operating expenses.

Both plans have been hindered by the necessity of devoting so much time to the present litigation, he pointed out.

PRaises Fly As Fogarty Takes Jail Command

Sheriff Gives Luncheon for All Concerned.

Edward J. Fogarty assumed his new job as warden of the Cook county jail yesterday under the most pleasant of circumstances. For two hours before his first visit to the scene of his future activities he listened to words of praise of his past record, words of praise for Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman who appointed him, praise for Judge John P. McGroarty who appointed a citizens' committee to select a new warden, and praise for the committee in choosing him.

In the morning Warden Fogarty filed his bond of $100,000 and took the oath of office. Then Sheriff Hoffman gave a luncheon to the jail advisory committee, the new warden, and Judge McGroarty. Many well known civic leaders were present. Judge McGroarty was toastmaster and his first words were compliments to Sheriff Fogarty.

Points to Fogarty's Record.

The sheriff's reply was that he appreciated the services of the committee and was happy in their choice. Warden Fogarty's record as head of the Indiana state penitentiary for fourteen years was such as to have attracted nation-wide attention and recognition by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who tendered him appointment on an amateur prison committee and offered him the wardenship of the Atlanta penitentiary. Sheriff Hoffman pointed out.

He told the new warden there are no strings attached to the job and that he wants the jail operated properly. Frank D. Loomis, chairman of the advisory committee, said there was no favoritism shown in the choice of Fogarty. Though the trial was held in chambers, he was not allowed to remain in the courtroom.

Hot Tilt at Conference.

Mr. Jones and Mr. Oliphant, chairman of the committee that selected a site for the new jail, said he was satisfied Fogarty was the best man available for the job. He added that the people of Chicago have come to regard the position of jail warden as one of utmost importance to the community. From all sides, Mr. Noel said, he has heard praise for Sheriff Hoffman in making this appointment.

George M. Dixon said the committee had done a great service for Chicago in examining candidates for the jail wardenhip and in recommending Fogarty. He said he would do his utmost to persuade the next sheriff to retain the new warden.

After the luncheon Warden Fogarty went to the jail and took off his coat.

"I'm going to work, not talk," he said.

Banker Tells Satisfaction.

Joseph R. Noel, banker and chairman of the committee that selected a site for the new jail, said he was satisfied Fogarty was the best man available for the job. He added that the people of Chicago have come to regard the position of jail warden as one of utmost importance to the community. From all sides, Mr. Noel said, he has heard praise for Sheriff Hoffman in making this appointment.

The confession is understood not to be the strongest of the contentions which William G. Thompson, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, will make in arguing the motion for a new trial.

The hearing on the motion will open before Judge Thayer at Dedham, Sept. 14.

Presided at Trial in 1921.

Judge Thayer presided at the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti in the summer of 1921 and also at the trial of Vanzetti in June, 1920, at Plymouth, for the same offense of payroll robbery there. There is said to be in the possession of defendant's counsel evidence never before presented, from eye-witnesses of the South Braintree crime, known to the government soon after the affair of more than six years ago, but unknown to the defense until two months ago.

The bride was published Aug. 26 in the Munich city hall, but on account of the almost illegible writing it was not deciphered until today when a direct appeal was made to the court.</

GENEVA PARLEY ENDS; 'ALL WANT U. S. IN COURT'

America's Reservations to Subcommittee.

BY HENRY WALES.
Chicago Tribune Press Service.
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The conference of thirty-eight member-states of the League of Nations to examine the United States' reservations on adherence to the world court referred the matter to a subcommittee this afternoon after three days of prolific speech making.

The following were named on the committee: H. Rollin of Belgium, Sir Cedric Hurst of Great Britain, Sir George Foster of Canada, M. Fromageau of France, Sig. Pliotti of Italy, Dr. Toshida of Japan, Count Michel Rostrofski of Poland, M. Ousky of Czechoslovakia, Dr. Osten Unden of Sweden, Señor Buero of Uruguay, M. Döschert of Switzerland.

Many Verses in Room.
Miss Sut had been dead more than four hours when the body was found in the room by the police, said. One match of verse relating over the meaning of life, she became "tired of everything everybody" was found near the girl. On a dresser in the room many other poems, evidently of her composition. One was entitled "Suicide" and another "Philosophy." One verse read: "I am perfect normal in every way, but am I not away forever? No reason why I could not be possibly am going to try it tonight. Good folks."

A police learned that Miss Sut had been employed by the Diamond Truck company. An inquest was held today at 1724 West Madison street.

NY RAISE TO 500 "L" MEN; DD TO BENEFITS

mands for changes in the maintenance of the $1,000 life insurance and week sick benefits were granted. Increased wages were denied in the awards' statement made yesterday among 4,500 operating employees of Chicago Rapid Transit company.

Threats of a strike against the members of the union demanded increases of five cents an hour for the next 77 weeks paid retroactively and for condonments. Arbitrators agreed on, however, and Maynard represented the union and Vice President W. J. Fallon the company.

After the award, instead of the members contributing three-fifths of the cost of the welfare features, the company will pay the cost, where heretofore it paid two-thirds.

The agreement is retroactive.

Rep. to Briton.

I did not envisage the probability of the United States' demands being met. The demands we must make to satisfy our demands. Why talk about the United States walking out before its time comes in?" replied Count Rostrofski.

M. Roll suggested that America's original statement might be amended to read that the court could not render advisory opinions in cases "where the United States claims and has an interest."

Rep. Van Eysinga of Holland, chairman, and individual replies had better be sent to Washington by the member states, but he said a collective resolution might be adopted if the subcommittee so recommended.

Rep. Venosta said:

"Let us strive to realize the United States' adhesion to the greatest democracy in history." M. Denichert of Switzerland said that America was entitled to the same footing as the member states, suggesting that the court might be asked two kinds of advisory opinions, one on procedure and the other on principle.

Prince Accains U. S.

M. Negulesco of Roumania said the United States simply wishes to formulate its rights as a nonmember of the league, and Roumania accepts the reservation. Little Prince, Arts of Foreign Relations, that would be great advantage if America joined the court.

Prince Franco of Santo Domingo said his country rejoiced the United States as a "great sister republic, only intending to safeguard its rights."

The subcommittee will draft a report showing how the American reservations can be made to dovetail with the league and court machinery, what amendments, if any, are necessary to the covenant and Hague statutes, and what machinery Washington will participate the same as a full fledged council member in league action regarding advisory opinions.

Sweden Tells U. S. Ames.

Senator Swanson of Virginia, who is here on his vacation, which drafted the American reservations, only told the greatest care to protect America's interests without interfering with the league.

"As far as resigning from the court is concerned, there is no question of our right to denounce the protocol and the Hague any time we wish."

Regarding the discussion going on whether unanimity or majority rule should be used when voting or requesting an advisory opinion, the court, the main committee based its answer on the unanimity rule which always heretofore prevailed and which probably will continue."

A strong attack on these American reservations was made yesterday by Sir George Foster of Canada.

Spain Delays League.

Spain's continued unkindness over its failure to obtain a permanent seat in the council of the league is obstructing the work of the league, said in preparing for Germany's entry next week.

Thus far Spain's Spanish representative here, has not received a reply from the Spanish dictator, General Primo de Rivera, on whether the Madrid government will accept the committee's proposal of a semi-permanent place in council for six years.

The Tribune is informed, however, that Spain's reply will be handed in tomorrow, when the Madrid government will announce its intention to "abandon" itself in the league's interests and not actually withdraw from the league.

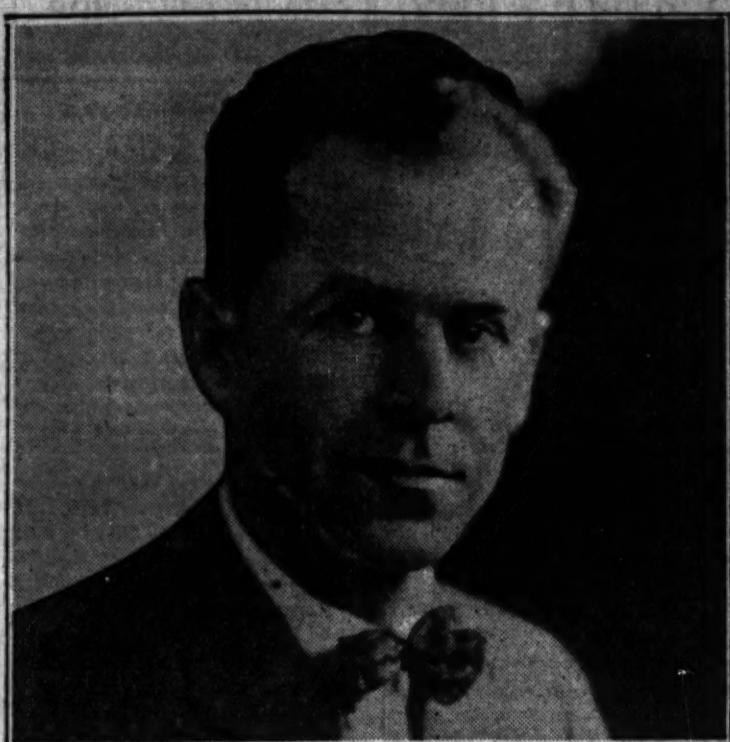

Demand Seat.

In this case the South American country is preparing an enormous maneuver in the opening assembly to win Spain a seat anywhere, with a demand urging Madrid to continue to be a part and carry on its work.

Spain's claims for a permanent seat have definitely soured, and the country is determined not to make overtures to Brazil which would endanger the return of Spain to the fold.

U. S. CERTAIN OF O. K. BY COURT, COOLIDGE VIEW

Sees Approval of 5th Reservation.

Paul Smith, N. Y., Sept. 3.—(AP)—

President Coolidge is confident the nations that are members of the world court will accept the American reservations to the protocol of adherence and that their examination of the reservations will show that the object is merely to place the United States on a parity in the court with the nations that are members of the league of nations.

Nations who are members of the world court and who also are members of the league of nations and have a seat in the council of the league, it was pointed out, have a veto power over any advisory opinions the court may render, inasmuch as the unanimous consent of the council must be given for such an opinion.

The fifth American reservation requiring the consent of the United States to be given for any advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which this country has or claims an interest, it was said, would merely place the United States in the same position as other countries before the court.

When article 5 is studied and understood by the other nations, it was declared the president believes they will see that it is entirely fair.

Reports that have been made to President Coolidge by business and industrial leaders Nation Viewed have demonstrated Prosperous by very well in his opinion, that the country is in a prosperous condition.

Two thousand men were made to the fall political campaign or to assent to by Republican national party leaders that "prosperity" was to be the issue in the elections, officials emphasized briefly but pointedly in behalf of Mr. Coolidge. The satisfaction he feels in the present general business, industrial and economic state of the country.

Recalling today the array of men who have called upon the President at the summer White House, officials pointed to automobile manufacturers, chain store merchants, electrical equipment manufacturers, railroad men, and others who have told of excellent business and economic conditions.

37 BOARDS RUN PUBLIC'S PARKS IN THIS COUNTY

Unified Control Is Needed,
Experts Declare.

public works. In addition, the eleven members of the board of education operate about 85 playgrounds adjacent to public schools. Several years ago it was decided to be good public policy to place all playgrounds under one jurisdiction. The city turned over to the school board all the playgrounds that board would accept. That board declined to take any not adjoining school yards.

To be sure, small segregated playgrounds are in a different class from large parks, where athletic and recreational features are conducted on a large scale, but the principle of one management regarding playgrounds outside of large parks has been approved by the city council.

The experts who extend taxes see that each tax using activity gets its largest share. The city's office, have been begging for consolidation of the small park districts for several years as a means of curtailing a large amount of tedious work and an enormous reduction in the risk of errors in tax extending.

Urge Greater Efficiency.

The bureau of public efficiency has asserted "there should be a unification of the operation and management of Chicago's park districts."

It has been the bureau's opinion for many years that "the large number of local governments in Chicago, with their very large number of elective officials, independent of one another, operates to produce not only inefficient public service but an enormous waste of public revenues."

Specifically on park consolidation, the bureau has said: "Lack of unity in such operations and management necessarily results in inefficient service to the public, but increases the cost of maintaining the parks." The increase in efficiency from unification and reduction in the number of officials would be enormous. If the park governments were consolidated with the city government, an annual saving in operating costs amounting to half a million dollars could be made."

Based on Lower Costs.

That estimate was made when costs were about 66 per cent of what they are now. When Chicago had only 12 park districts instead of 15, an attempt was made several years ago to consolidate the larger park districts, but it failed. No effort in that direction has been made with reference to the 15 small park districts.

Each of the 15 small park boards, as well as the three larger commissions, is independent of the others. Within the authority conferred by the legislature, each is a government unto itself. Each has complete and exclusive control of the park facilities under its jurisdiction, and each has the power to make different management rules for the operation and maintenance of its property. Each has the power to prescribe different rules for the conduct of patrons of its property within the authority granted by the general assembly.

Parks Sure to Grow.

"Not all of the 18 park districts have boulevards and parks large enough to drive through," said one assistant corporation counsel, "but they eventually will have, if they continue to exercise the power to levy taxes. Then, of course, each of them will have policemen. Each board of the 18 park boards can require a different uniform for its police and the city itself perhaps will have still a different uniform. Each of the 18 can have different kinds of stop and go lights—if there are 19 different kinds made. Each can prescribe different rules of the road. I am speaking of what is legally possible and attempting to illustrate some of the meaning of multi-plectic of park governments."

SUSPECT MAN OF 50 HAS ELOPED WITH GIRL OF 12

Mystery Telegram Is Clew to Couple.

Suspicion that a 10 year old man had eloped with a 12 year old girl reached the Woodlawn police yesterday.

First there was the report from Mrs. L. A. McLeish, 4340 Vernon avenue, Thursday, that her daughter Evelyn, 12, was missing and she feared the girl was kidnapped. Then, that night, a telegram was received from the girl saying she had gotten away with a Miss Green and would be back in a few weeks. The mother said she knew of no Miss Green.

Telegram from Station.
The telegram was found to have been sent from the La Salle street post and mystery detectives learned a middle aged man had accompanied the child who sent it and he had evidently written it.

Yesterday the police learned that Peter Madsen, 35 years old, a carpenter, 6342 Vernon avenue, next door to the McLeish home, also was missing. Mrs. Madsen said he had drawn $400 from a bank a few days before and she had last seen him on Thursday.

Mrs. Madsen had no idea her husband had gone away with the little McLeish girl, but she told the investigators she had often heard Evelyn McLeish threaten to run away from home.

Gets Warrant for Carpenter.

Mr. McLeish, when he learned that, secured a warrant for the arrest of Madsen and telegrams were sent asking police of all cities to be on the watch for the 50 year old man and the 12 year old girl.

BENNETT FINDS LA SALLE A CITY OF THINGS DONE

One Place Where Melting Pot Is Working.

Note you are in the very heart of the shire country of north central Illinois, shrine of Nature and of History—Starved Rock, St. Bede's abbey, tiny but illustrious Granville, Parkman's Utica, and Deer Park. But first, in this story of The Tribune's Champaign Pilgrimage, I must tell you how you can be comfortable and interested in La Salle, metropolis of the second largest county in Illinois, while you are shirking roundabout.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

What more entertaining and instructive than to learn at first hand how a community thinks out and works out and fights out its problems? Our thriving, thrifty neighbor three counties to the southwest of us, the town of La Salle, had on its hands not long since one of those human pests a vagabond named ... who sold his Christian privileges to plant most un-Christian rascars in the heart of the community. He would say anything to gain publicity.

You know the type. Mr. Finnern, quiet speaking wall paper and picture frame merchant, told me the story.

From his pulpit in La Salle this parson—I have his name and denomination, but let that pass—attacked the Masses, attacked the Order of the Eastern Star, and attacked the Roman Catholic church. He was doing not only important hospital work at St. Mary's in La Salle. You can at the least say for the parson that he was comprehensive in vituperation.

La Salle's Leaders See Red.

One of his pupil antics was to bring in one of those half mad, half vicious creatures who bathe on human crudity, a so-called "reformed monk."

Then the attacks on nuns became too wicked for further endurance.

So, in any case, La Salle thought, and felt that it had a right to its thoughts, because, as a community, it knows a good deal about the work of the nuns at St. Mary's. The city, you see, votes an annual appropriation to that institution to help compensate it for the part of its work that is strictly civic.

Then, when the blackguard's attacks became indecent, weighty men in La Salle began to see red, and some of them said, "Look here! My sister is a nun, and I can't stand this much longer."

Then certain Protestants took charge of the situation, saying, "Parson, we've been patient a long time, but tonight out you go. Here's your rail. Get on it!"

Ride Parson Out on Rail.

They rode him out of town on a rail. He has not returned to date.

Such is the "La Salle system." It has its points.

When the Ku Klux became perturbous, even the Protestant Masons joined the cause of equality, peace and helped to end the diabolical dikes. "Stand firm as a rock, our Masons did," said quiet speaking Mr. Finnern.

La Salle has to be firm in these mat-

EMERGENCY LANDING FIELDS AND LIGHTS FOR ST. LOUIS ROUTE

(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(Special)—In a preliminary report submitted to William P. MacCracken Jr., commerce department assistant secretary for aeronautics, Airway Superintendent W. J. MacKenzie recommends the installation of twenty-four revolving two foot beacons to equip the St. Louis-Chicago route for night flying.

Mr. MacKenzie recently returned to Washington after putting up forty-eight hours and forty-five minutes flying time on the airway surveying lighting requirements.

He also recommends that nine emergency landing fields, each about 40 acres in extent and selected to permit safe landing from any direction, be established along the route about thirty miles apart. He suggests that each field be lighted at night.

Eighty-five per cent of La Salle's total population is Roman Catholic.

And that total population includes a large representation of the two most prominent religious races of mankind.

I mean the Poles and the Irish, who for centuries have been joyously occupied in fighting themselves into and out of slavery.

Mr. Finnern said that the Poles make up 80 per cent of his city's population.

But the Irish, a far smaller percentage, dominate politics.

Hence ructions, which, I suppose, are not to be deplored, they being such stalwart exercise in citizenship.

Flight for Political Control.

The Irish now control La Salle's commission form of government, which comprises two Irishmen, one Pole, and one Englishman. With the jockeying, at which they are good, the Irish commissioners and Irish mayor, Peter Coleman, lose little sleep worrying about a majority. Therefore, the Poles are bent on voting La Salle back to the aldermanic form of government.

What is interesting is it not, the panorama in little of our national existence and excitements which La Salle's 16,000 provide the attentive mind? And such communities are all around us. They are our life.

"Don't be patronizing about them," Warren Harding was wont to say, and he would add, "It makes me angry—this superiority about them and their Chautauquas and their Rotaries. They're good people and our country's soul. I'm always proud to be asked to speak before a Chautauqua."

The President said that after he had

Flight Glimpses of La Salle.

Mark, as you draw near to La Salle, the twin spires on the horizon. From the distance they are very fine; upon close view not satisfactory. Well, they are the spires of St. Hyacinth's, great Polish church, with a congregation of a thousand or more families.

The twin spires are perfect twins.

High above them the identical clocks, both facing the same way. Entering the vestibule, you observe identical holy water fonts.

There is a story goes with these identifications. 'Tis said that the Poles, when they ran—for the moment—out of causes of ructions with the Irish, ructioned among themselves. Under priests perhaps more plios than pundits, these contentions became a scandal to the parish. Twin spires, twin clocks, twin fonts; everything—so that warring factions could look and laugh.

The Melting Pot Town.

Such are some aspects of life and of problem in the immigrant melting pot of Chicago—and for you.

La Salle, one of its most agreeable features is the excellent Kaskaskia hotel, designed by our Messes. Marshall and Fox. Tastefully furnished rooms, good food, fair prices—done in the times go, and a dining room—done in French gray—that is a place to the eyes. Service good. At the Kaskaskia you can be as comfortable as anybody deserves to be during the two days that it will take you to see thoroughly the entrancing shrine places roundabout La Salle that I now purpose to do.

GIVE NEW YORK RABBIS 10 DAYS TO DISPOSE OF ALL WINE STOCKS

New York, Sept. 3.—(Special)—With the Jewish holidays five days away, Maj. Chester P. Mills, prohibition administrator, notified rabbis in the city today that they must dispose of their stocks of sacramental wines within ten days. The rabbis are ordered to report to the authorities any surplus they may have on hand at the end of that time and await instructions as to its disposal.

The instructions will allow the rabbis to carry on their legitimate business with members of their congregations until the end of the Jewish holidays, which extend intermittently over a ten day period, beginning with Rosh Hashonah next Wednesday.

BASS IS DOCILE AT COOLIDGE'S HITCHING POST

But Moses Kicks Traces and Draws the Crowd.

ST. ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. Manchester, N. H., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Little rocked the late W. Warner Crane, if he rocked at all, as he surveyed the battlefield of Armaton, that those holier than thou, devout, psalm-singing Progressives would one day be found fighting for dancing room in the band wagon of political protégé and pupil, Calvin Coolidge.

Yes, and even trying to ride into office on the tail board of said band wagon.

He is former Gov. Robert Bass, who was fought by the side of Roosevelt in 1912, who helped found the Bull Moose party, seeking the Republican nomination for United States senator as a Coolidge shouter, pledging himself, if elected, to support Coolidge, last, and all the time. And that he considers the most damning point in his indictment of his opponent, Senator George H. Moses, is that Moses has failed frequently in and out of the senate faithfully to support Coolidge.

Traced to Red Deputies. A presents' party is a member of communist International. Its leader, Deputy Bass, recently rented an apartment from a woman in Warren, in floods of communistic anti-government literature began to appear in the political police traced the name to the flat held under the wavy name and discovered a complete existing establishment, with proofs manuscripts of revolutionary. While police were waiting two other members of parliament entered the place and were arrested. Six workers were placed under guard.

Warning to Communists.

A raid is expected to serve as a warning to other factions with communist leadings that they will be arrested if they make any attempt to interfere with the government's new policy.

Moses is a wool dyed irreconcilable socialist. He has isolated himself from President Coolidge, from the Republican platform, and from the United States senate. He has cast more monkey votes against Republican administrations in the last five years than any other senator from New England. He is as wild as Brookhart. As in voting with those minorities he has been on the wrong side.

But Moses Kicks Over Traces.

"He failed to support Coolidge on his reduction; he voted against the Coolidge policy on foreign relations; he stood squarely against the Coolidge plan in the coal investigation, and on the railway labor bill. He openly fought the Republican leadership which was trying to carry out the pledges made in the Republican platform. Yet he seems to be a wool dyed, regular Republican.

His opponent, former Gov. Robert Bass may be depended upon to be won over to Coolidge upon all great fundamental principles, when Senator Moses has opposed Coolidge."

Mr. Bass in his speeches proclaims himself a Coolidge supporter, past, present, and prospective, and lambasts Bass for his votes contrary to the Coolidge leadership. Then Moses comes back to Bass with defense of independence and a reminder to New Hampshire Republicans that: "he always has voted the Republican party, thereby recalling 1912, when he led the Bull Moose revolt in this state resulting in a Democratic sweep of the governorship and the legislature and the election of a Democrat to the United States senate."

Bass Backs Down on Court.

The original headliner in Bass' enumeration of the instances of Moses' adherence to Coolidge leadership was the senator's vote against the state court. Inasmuch as Moses was one of the only two New England senators voting against the world court in a region originally partial to the Coolidge administration, and all its works, Bass started his campaign confident he could take Moses' scalp easily as that lone eagle. As time went on, however, he found that New Hampshire appeared to approve this particular exhibition of Moses' independence and was compelled virtually to drop the subject.

He blames Moses for voting against the 1924 tax reduction bill, and in reply cites his vote for the tax reduction and circulates his Senate speech, which, he says, the principles adopted by Coolidge and Mellon in the latest revision.

World War Veterans Hold Reunion

Former members of the Second Regiment of Air Service Mechanics revive old memories at gathering in the Hotel La Salle. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Airports Needed

The establishment of more airports and the awakening of popular interest in commercial aviation are the two principal needs of the flying business.

C. M. Tichenor, production manager of the Flivverland Motor company, told several hundred members of the national air service mechanics at their first reunion in the Hotel La Salle last night.

Mr. Tichenor, a member of the regiment in the war, spoke to the veterans at a banquet which closed the first of their two day convention here. The meeting closes today with the election of officers of the association and the formulation of plans for a permanent organization.

note Mr. Coolidge, presiding over the senate at the time, scribbled and sent to Moses: "Good speech; should be widely read. Coolidge."

Moses complains that Moses voted for the first postal salary increase bill which the President disapproved because it carried no provision for increased postal revenue. That doesn't fit in with the present situation.

Moses is a wool dyed irreconcilable socialist. He has isolated himself from President Coolidge, from the Republican platform, and from the United States senate. He has cast more monkey votes against Republican administrations in the last five years than any other senator from New England. He is as wild as Brookhart.

INDICT THREE FOR MURDER OF DON MELLETT

2 in Custody; "Key Man" Still a Fugitive.

CANTON, O., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Three men tonight stand indicted for the first degree murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, slain July 14. Seven weeks of constant investigation reached a climax in the report of the Stark county grand jury this afternoon.

The three indicted are Ben Rudner, Mansfield; Louis Maser, Canton; Patrick Eugene McDermott, Nanty Gio, Pa., and Cleveland. According to Prosecutor C. B. McClintock, more indictments are probable.

No clew except three exploded pistol cartridges was left behind when the crusading editor fell dead at his garage door, victim of a bullet fired from ambush. So far as is known, no witness saw the assassination. Justice was not meted out speedily, it has been charged, because Canton police bungled.

Yet out of a mass of circumstances, witnesses were brought together to tell the story of a grand jury and on this evidence, through toll of city, county, state, federal and special officers, the indictments were obtained.

McDermott is a fugitive from justice, having been sought throughout the nation for five weeks. Maser is held in Cleveland, charged with the murder first in a warrant issued more than two weeks ago, and also charged with conspiracy to violate federal dry laws.

Arrested on Capias.

Rudner was arrested today shortly before the grand jury sat. He was taken to jail on a grand jury's warrant issued by Judge Abram W. Asler, at the request of Prosecutor C. B. McClintock. Arraignment of Maser and Rudner is expected some time next week. Both are expected to plead "not guilty." The search for McDermott, considered the "keyman," will be continued.

Trial of the men may be had separately if they so request, although they are accused in one indictment.

The case is not expected to go before a grand jury until late in October or early in November. Both men deny the charge.

Tips From All Sections.

To help run down McDermott Detectives Opie Stalter, Cincinnati, first to advance the McDermott theory, will return to Canton next week after a few days' vacation and check the tips that continue to come in from all parts of the country.

Two moves were made today to keep a tight hold on the witnesses. One of them, Steve Eischen of Nanty Glo, Pa., was held in jail about 24 hours after the murder, was placed in the housekeeper. His bond was fixed at $50,000. Peggy Cavanaugh, friend of McDermott, was also committed to the housekeeper under $10,000 bond.

Kascholka is primarily an informant against McDermott, but he also implicated Rudner and Maser, according to testimony given him. The information he gave may be uncovered at any time, McClintock said today, and the grand jury may be reconvened.

It is the first anniversary of the Shenandoah disaster, when that craft, much larger than the TC-5, buckled and crashed on Ohio hills.

Bombing Unsolved

Police at Sea for Motive in Eller Bombing

Plenty of Theories, but No Clews.

Inquiry yesterday into the bombing of the home of Morris Eller, sanitary district trustee and political power of the Twentieth ward, failed to develop a motive for the act or uncover a clew as to the identity of the bombers.

Mr. Eller insisted he had no idea what caused the explosion, which was an outrage, arguing that such enemies as he had were "merely political ones," and wouldn't throw bombs.

One theory of police is that the bomb, which completely wrecked the front of the two flat building where Eller lives with his wife and son, was intended for Joseph Ginsberg, professional bondsman, who lives next door. Ginsberg, it was recalled, was "taken for a ride" several months ago by gangsters who shot him and left him in a ditch for dead.

Can't Furnish Clews.

Mr. Eller called Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins and State's Attorney Crowe during the day demanding a thorough investigation of the bombing, but admitted he was unable to furnish a clew as to who would have been clearing up the case.

Capt. James Gleason, commanding the Fillmore station, in charge of the investigation, with Lieut. Charles Drue, announced last night they had made no progress in the case and were holding no one in custody.

Mr. Eller exonerated a number of persons he named before the recent election committee which investigated election irregularities in Chicago. He declared all named by him were above committing such an outrage.

Eller's Son Frees Drue.

Another theory sought to connect the bombing indirectly with the recent gunfight participated in by Vincent (Schemper) Drue and others in front of the sanitary district offices in Michigan avenue.

The party then left for Madison to serve papers on the R. L. Hopkins, president of a Madison bank, who has been Wright's financial adviser.

"If I do not find my child I shall take some action against Mr. Wright," Hinsenberg said.

OVER THE ANDES

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Sept. 3.—(U. N.)—James Doolittle, an American aviator, arrived here Friday afternoon from Santiago, Chile, after crossing the Andes mountains in a nonstop flight. Piloting a Curtiss one seater plane, Doolittle made the trip in seven hours and 27 minutes.

[Doolittle's intention to fly across the Andes aroused great interest in South America, especially because of the aviator's recent injury to both ankles, which would have made his death a virtual certainty had he been forced down.]

RECEIVERSHIP FOR G. L. MILLER CO., BIG BOND HOUSE

Financed Structures in Sixteen States.

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—G. L. Miller & Co., one of the largest real estate and mortgage bond houses in the country, went into equity receivership today.

Assets of the company were placed at $9,436,937 and liabilities at $6,151,324. Lawrence Bernstein was appointed receiver and placed under $100,000 bond.

The G. L. Miller Company and its various holding corporations, named in the action, filed answers admitting the allegations and joining in the request for the appointment of a receiver.

Had Five Hundred Agencies.

The company maintained twenty branch offices and in addition had more than 500 agencies throughout this country and Europe for distribution of its bonds.

Its operations extended throughout the United States and middle west, the corporation having underwritten bond issues for approximately 150 structures located in fifty-eight cities in sixteen states, and aggregating about $70,000,000 in value. The firm is understood to have approximately 31,000 customers.

The company recently was under the scrutiny of the New York attorney general's office. Its Pennsylvania license was revoked some time ago by the bureau of securities at Harrisburg, Pa.

Organized in 1909.

The receivership action was brought in federal court by the Park Avenue corporation, which claimed that on April 1, the Miller company contracted to pay it $1,425,000 in installments for bonds it had issued in a building. The payment of $50,000 due on Aug. 5 was made.

The party then left for Madison to serve papers on the R. L. Hopkins, president of a Madison bank, who has been Wright's financial adviser.

"If I do not find my child I shall take some action against Mr. Wright," Hinsenberg said.

Chloroform Burglars Miss Money Hide in Bible

The chloroform burglars who entered the apartment of Mrs. John Wohlfarth, 27 years old, 1037 Dakin street, yesterday, overlooked $250 that was hidden between the pages of a Bible lying in plain view on a chair table. The man, according to Mrs. Wohlfarth, entered her apartment and overpowered her. They held her face to a towel saturated with chloroform and she lost consciousness.

Walter Marshall, 2136 West 18th street, and George Kalinoff, 2222 West 18th place, were sentenced to six months in prison for attacking a 14 year old girl. Two older boys, Casimer Parcik and Felix Sebaszian, who attacked the child, were ordered held to the grand jury.

THE "PINEAPPLE" INDUSTRY LOOKS UP.

The bombing of the home of Morris Eller is a warning to all local politicians. Mr. Eller is a man of some attainment in the field of practical politics—sanitary district trustees, one of the leaders of the Crowley-Barrett faction of the Republican party in Cook county, and by his own boast, boss of the best organization in the world. The results of the April primaries were evidence that Mr. Eller's boast was justified.

It is apparent, therefore, that the professional bomber is aiming higher when he blows up the Eller home. He began by hiring out in labor quarrels. He matriculated in the kindergarten class by bombing laundries, barber shops, and cleaning establishments. More lately he graduated to beauty parlors. Now he attains to political leaders. He will not stop there unless he is stopped. Other politicians—not owning, perhaps, Mr. Eller's organization, but just as important in their way—may expect a rude awakening some night from the detonation of a "pineapple," a "stick," or a "football"—as the tool of their trade is variously known in bombing circles.

Since it happens that these same politicians have it within their power to put the professional bomber in the penitentiary or run him out of town, it would behoove them to get somewhat busy and set the rusty wheels of justice in motion.

SOUTHWARD IN CHICAGOLAND.

A correspondent in Saline county thinks Mr. Bennett should drop down there before long because southern Illinois is also a part of Chicagoland. The idea is a sound one. When the frost is on the pumpkin at Dresden Heights, when the little float that runs up and down the shore from the pier has been put up for the winter, when it seems right and decent to eat an apple before going to bed, when, in short, Mr. Bennett's fingers will be numbed by the cold if he attempts to take notes in this part of the country, he will move southward again and this time he will drop well below the Lincoln country.

"Eight Months in Illinois," would be a likely book to read on the way south. The Englishman who wrote it back in the 'forties' had eyes in his head and knew how to write. His name was William Oliver. He was spying out the land for his neighbors, "the labouring men of Roxburgshire" to whom the book is inscribed. He wrote:

"Almost all the descriptions that I have seen fail to convey to a European any accurate idea of the prairie. In England the term is rendered 'meadow' and is applied to a particular kind of grass land; but in America the term is applied to land of every quality and situation if naturally denuded of trees. . . . The grass continues green till frost in the fall, when they die quite down to the earth, affording not the slightest symptom of vegetation till spring. On the untouched prairies the grass grows to a height of three or four feet mixed on the rich soils with weeds which sometimes usurp nearly the whole surface and are so tall that an army of men on horseback might easily be concealed amongst them. . . . The surface of the prairie is frequently what is called rolling. . . . The stranger is often startled by the appearance of a herd of cattle or horses as if it were rising out of the earth or quietly grazing where a minute before his eye had wandered over the unvaried ocean of grass. . . .

"Few sights can be grander than that of a prairie on fire during the night; the huge body of flame spread far and wide, leaping and plunging like the waves of the sea in a gale on a rocky coast and emitting a continued roar like that of a heavy surf heard from a short distance. The whole country is lighted up for miles and the sky (where not obscured by volumes of smoke) is like a sheet of red hot metal. But the scene is by far the grandest when the fire is in the woods. . . .

"There is every reason to believe that coal provides. . . . though owing to the abundance of wood the inhabitants have not hitherto paid much attention to that mineral. A great drawback to the usefulness of the coal seams on the prairies is their frequently having no cover, beyond the alluvial deposits of gravel and clay which, when deep, render the coal quite unattainable by ordinary means. . . . The seams are sometimes three and four feet thick. The coal is bituminous and of excellent quality."

And again: "In their intercourse with one another the inhabitants are much more courteous than the peasantry of Scotland or England and maintain an ease and self-possession which is seldom seen amongst what may be reckoned their equals in this country. . . . Distinction of classes is little known and seldom recognized. I have seen a veritable major invited to a corn shucking; and the major went."

Mr. Bennett, as soon as the weather turns, will tell what those self-possessed pioneers of only eighty years ago, and their sons and grandsons, have made of their prairie lands.

NO APOLOGIES NECESSARY.

The Journal of Flint, Genesee county, Michigan, recently published an editorial in criticism of the diversion by Chicago of water from Lake Michigan and of the mutual interest which has caused Chicago and New York to lean away from the St. Lawrence seaway proposal and favor rather the projected all-American route. This Flint newspaper expressed particular concern over Canada's feelings in the matter and took the liberty of apologizing to the dominion at large for the conduct of what it points out, are America's two largest cities.

One thing detracted from the estimable earnestness of the Journal's contrite broadside: the fact that it was based on two wholehearted misrepresentations.

The Journal accepts and uses as the foundation of its argument in favor of Canadian sensitivities the statement of one Samuel S. Wyer, a consulting engineer of Columbus, O., given before the Institute of Politics, asserting that the Chicago diversion is a violation of the spirit of the Niagara falls water power treaty between the United States and Canada. Mr. Wyer admitted, said the Journal, that the diversion of water by Chicago for sanitary purposes was legal, but was dictated by poor judgment, since Canada did not like it.

The true facts—they were ascertained and reported last spring by Representative Martin B. Madole of Illinois—are these:

Negotiations between the United States and Canada over the waters of the lakes began with the survey made by J. L. P. O'Hanley, Canadian engineer, who reported in 1896 that the Chicago drainage canal would divert 10,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan.

In 1905 the international waterways commission was created.

In 1906 the American members recommended the authorization of a diversion on the American side of 23,500 feet, "including therein a diversion of 10,000 cubic feet per second for the Chicago drainage canal."

On April 25, 1906, the Canadian members reported that the Chicago drainage canal would use about 10,000 cubic feet per second and they proposed an American diversion of 18,500 feet at Niagara falls and 10,000 feet at Chicago, and a Canadian diversion of 26,000 feet.

On March 3, 1906, a joint report recommended a diversion at Chicago of 10,000 feet. On Jan. 4, 1907, a special report upon the Chicago drainage canal was made in which it was said, "There appears to be a tacit general agreement that no objection will be made to the diversion of 10,000 cubic feet per second as originally planned."

There is not the least question that it was understood when the treaty was signed granting the United States a diversion of 20,000 feet and Canada a diversion of 26,000 feet at Niagara falls, that the Chicago diversion of 10,000 feet was understood and agreed to. Together with the 20,000 feet diversion, the American total was to be 30,000 feet. Canada was allowed an extra 6,000 feet because some of the power generated by the Canadian diversion was transmitted to the American side.

This is the first misrepresentation indulged in by the Journal. The second has to do with Chicago's provisions for sewage disposal. The Journal in its apology charges that Chicago is attempting to dodge the cost of sewage disposal plants.

The answer to that charge is that it is sheer falsehood. Chicago has worked for twenty years on a sewage disposal system that, it is estimated, will cost $125,000,000.

Just why, by the way, is the Journal of Flint, Genesee county, Michigan, so taken up with the wastewater and lake problem; just why so solicitous about Canadian feelings? According to the map the town of Flint is some thirty-five or forty miles from lake water; it is a still greater distance from the Canadian border.

There are influences at work behind the opposition to the waterways that have not yet been brought into the open.

"The friendship of other nations cannot be measured by dollars," says the humble Journal. Perhaps not, but why are itinerant engineers from inland cities peddling falsehoods?

SENATOR MOSES SHOULD BE RETURNED TO OFFICE.

New Hampshire Republicans reject Senator George H. Moses at the coming primaries and fail to return him to office—for the Republican nomination means election in New Hampshire—the Senate will lose one of its eminent figures and the country a statesman who has worked honestly and effectively for the national welfare. Fortunately the prediction is that Senator Moses will defeat former Gov. Robert Perkins Barn by a comfortable margin.

The political career of Senator Moses has been a distinguished one. In his earlier days he filled many offices of trust in his state. Twice he was delegate from New Hampshire to the Republican National convention. For three years he represented the United States in Greece and Montenegro. During the last presidential campaign he was chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. He was first elected to the Senate in 1912. He is now president pro tempore of the Senate, chairman of the postoffice committee, and ranking member of the committee on foreign relations.

His conduct as a senator has been such as to justify confidence. He helped keep the United States out of the league of nations; he fought woman suffrage; he has stood for the elimination of vice control. He was a leader in the unsuccessful fight against the adherence of the United States to the world court and, failing to halt the pro-continent swing, insisted upon the reservations. He has termed the Volstead act a "jacksonian statute."

Senator Moses is a courageous straight thinker. New Hampshire should send back to Washington for another term the man who, more than any other in recent years, has put New Hampshire on the map of national politics.

THE BOOK OF WOMAN.

[St. Paul Dispatch.] Next to childhood, womanhood was to have been the great beneficiary of prohibition. Wives no longer were to see the family income dissipated Saturday nights. Mothers no longer were to be summoned to bail bonds and husbands from jail. The great burden of sorrow that intemperance had placed upon the frail shoulders of woman was to have been removed when law had changed the habits of man.

But it seems that, coincident with increasing drunkenness among men and among children which has accompanied surrender of legal control of the traffic in intoxicants, another change has taken place. There was chronicled last week the first instance on record in the history of St. Paul in which a woman has been sent to the workhouse for driving an automobile while drunk.

And again: "In their intercourse with one another the inhabitants are much more courteous than the peasantry of Scotland or England and maintain an ease and self-possession which is seldom seen amongst what may be reckoned their equals in this country. . . . Distinction of classes is little known and seldom recognized. I have seen a veritable major invited to a corn shucking; and the major went."

No, doctor, your solution is wrong.

Since the law is not obeyed, we should set it aside. A poor clam digger ought to be privileged to dig clams any place he likes. Otherwise, what is personal liberty for?"

There are reasons for suspecting that "H. E. W." was spoofing. Perhaps he means to gently boil them with light.

He is a benevolent law. People disregard it. Therefore, it should be repealed. If disregard of the law is a reason for repealing prohibition law, maybe it is in a state of lawlessness.

"The Time of Man"
Is Real as Life

By Fanny Butcher.
"The Time of Man," by Elizabeth Roberts. (Viking.)

There are two ways of writing about lives which are starved of beauty—the sentimental way, which has had its most obvious and rather sickening expression in Fannie Hurst's "Lummox," and the realistic way, which was as well exemplified in Ellen Glasgow's "Barren Ground" as anything that I can think of that has been published lately. In one case the public lapped up the kickshaws of cheap sentiment and in the other it sniffed a little at the unsweetened and unloved bread of the soul and passed by, execusing itself with the customary excuse: "Life there is so unreal, why read about such things?" One was a work of art, the other a picture of the same class as the Gibson girls of another decade, a technically skillful illustration, and dated with its date of "reality."

Elizabeth Madox Roberts has written in "The Time of Man" just such another book as "Lummox" and "Barren Ground." It is the story of a girl, grown into womanhood, wifehood and motherhood, whose greatest blessing has been the joy of birds singing at dawn or the soft vigor of a field of grain on a hot afternoon—a creature who has never been able even to say as much to herself, an inarticulate, yearning soul, whose life is rooted in the unfertile fields of Tennessee and who blossoms because she is a vigorous healthy animal and nothing can stifle her physical growth, but who never has but a fleeting moment now and then of the ecstasy of living, and who never has a moment of the modern "self-expression."

Miss Roberts, who is a novelist, may have done her work in either of two ways, in the sentimental manner or the utterly realistic one. It would have been much to expect her to write a completely realistic novel, but she is a poet and a poet with a clear eye. What she has made out of her story is to be clasped with art and not with ephemeral sketching. Never once has she stepped across that intangible line between reality and sentimentality. Her characters are stark and crude and inspiring, but she has not breathed into them any false sense of mind or any unexpected yearning. She has done one of the hardest jobs in the novel writing business and she has done it with distinction.

"The Time of Man" is not a pleasant book. It will not be a best seller, for nothing really happens at all in a life as drab as the clay by the road side. The heroine—whose story it is—does not even show the popular "bigness" which many heroines have worn to a gold-plated popularity. She is real, and that is the end of it. It is certainly a first book to be proud of.

Offer $50,000 Prize for Best Novels by a Man and a Woman

Fifty thousand dollars is the latest literary prize to be announced. Its posting marks the establishment of a new publishing firm, the John Day company. This concern and the Woman's Home Companion are jointly offering two prizes of $25,000 each for the best novels written by a man and by a woman. The contest will close on July 1, 1927.

The motion picture rights to the novel will not be surrendered by the authors under provisions of the competition and therefore the prizes may prove to be the largest ever offered.

There are no restrictions as to nationality or previous record of attainment. Novels as short as 60,000 words will be eligible, although "preface will be given to manuscripts of full novel length." Most previous contests have insisted on novels ranging from 30,000 to 120,000 words in length.

Collaborations will be accepted, except those between men and women.

Two or more women may write together if they choose. Entry forms will be furnished free by the John Day company, 25 West 45th street, New York City.

Elmer Enjoys Evening with Many Artists

Selects Several for His Special Praise.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The room wherein the writer nightly searches for and finds the units of worth on the air was a continuous racial hall last evening.

The evening began with a joint recital by James Mitchell and Mary Boyd Mitchell, baritone and soprano, respectively, at WEBH, 710. All's well in the radio world, as every experienced listener knows, when these two justly admired harmonizing singers are on the air.

It is with real satisfaction that we are able to record a half hour recital at 8 o'clock by Announcer Arthur Wellington, baritone of the KYW Edition. Voice characteristics are not to figure in this review for there are only room and inclination to emphasize the interest that this singer aroused, the sincerity of purpose, and the deep feeling his singing gave to the songs.

Every additional recital by George Simons, lyric tenor, WMAQ, 829, serves only to increase this writer's admiration for this artist's natural singing voice's skillfully employed.

Then came a very fine and enjoyable joint recital by Mae Graves, Atkins, concert soprano, and Roy Macdonald, add. concert pianist, WMAQ, 829, to 9:30. Among the former's numbers were some modern songs of obviously great difficulties in pitch; but which she sang with ease. The voice itself is sweet and pure; the program choice.

Mr. Macdonald is one of the few pianists who skillfully can accompany and also put real character into solo pieces. The airs in his piano selections were brought out with great beauty; in fact, his every tone was pianistically beautiful.

Then another fine and enjoyable joint recital at WMAQ, 829 to 10, by Helen Freund, coloratura soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company (protégé of Mary Garden), by the way, and Herbert Kirchner, violinist. Miss Freund's voice was indeed lovely to listen to. It is not a large voice, but it is remarkably clear and smooth and sweet, also delightfully youthful. Her selections were delightful.

Mr. Kirchner did not measure up to a high standard. A pronounced vibrato noticed and enjoyed at first for its brilliancy seemed to become a mannerism before the close of the program.

SUITOR, 70, KILLS WOMAN, 26, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 3.—(AP)—A quarrel over the size of the stone in a diamond ring led to the slaying of a pretty red-haired telephone operator by her 70-year-old suitor, who later committed suicide.

Kathy G. Kirkley, wealthy restaurateur and hotel man of Charleston, W. Va., fired a bullet into the brain of Miss Mildred McDaniel, 26, of Brooklyn N. Y., while she slept in a hotel here this morning. He then entered the bathroom and shot himself twice, dying before help could be summoned by Miss Alma Gregory, also Brooklyn, who had brought the couple to Lexington Wednesday.

For months, Miss Gregory said, Kirkley had been lavish in his gifts to Miss McDaniel. Thursday night the two had quarreled over the size of the diamond in the ring he had given Mildred. The slaying and suicide were premeditated, in the belief of the police, who found two notes left by Kirkley, one his will and the other addressed to a Lexington undertaker.

PLANS PAGEANT TO OPEN WACKER DRIVE ON OCT. 20

Floats, with pretty girls, music, speeches, will mark the formal opening of Wacker drive, probably Oct. 20, according to plans announced yesterday by John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements.

With only now ten days ahead of schedule, Mr. Sloan believes the last swirl of asphalt will be laid on the upper level by that time.

Business and civic organizations will be asked to produce floats depicting Chicago historical events.

At the safety island front of the Jewelers' building a platform will be erected, from which Mayor Dever and other officials will speak. Charles H. Wacker, president, and members of the Chicago plan commission, which suggested the drive, will have places of honor.

Mr. Sloan said all who actually built the drive also should be honored during the ceremonies.

NORTH TO SOUTH AMERICAN RAIL LINE ADVOCATED

Establishment of an international railroad connecting Argentina, Brazil and Paraguay with the United States was advocated yesterday by the Optimists' club by William Lee Parker, former president of the Illinois Central railroad, who said that building of such a line would be an economic and a defensive measure.

The Amazon valley is the richest in the world, and ultimately will support the densest population in the world," Mr. Parker said. "If the 8,000 miles from Buenos Aires to El Paso, Tex., were joined by an American controlled railroad, with the Yankee ingenuity we could in a few years have the super highway of South America. The Amazon valley could be developed to the fullest extent."

Myrtle, Lost Elephant, Recaptured in Canada

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 3.—Myrtle, the second female elephant to be captured since a group of the animals broke from a circus on Aug. 8, and began roaming the Rocky mountain wilds between Fernie and Cranbrook, B. C., was returned to custody today. Notwithstanding exposure in a bleak climate, she has no bodily marks of her experiences, which included a drop down a 40 foot cliff. Charlie Ed, a male elephant, is still being sought.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.
Peach and Pear Jam.

Nowadays instead of adding water to fruit when making jam we usually do not. For this reason we do not have to cook the fruit with constant stirring, for an hour or two, in the meantime darkening the sugar and so the whole. Now we cook out some of the water in the fruit, if necessary, and then cook to a proper consistency and stop. A thermometer is an enormous aid in telling us when.

In making the following jam we may easily get two interesting and quite different products, or three, and we do not have to wait for the cooking pear season except for economy's sake. It is rather probable that the delicious eating pears give us a finer flavored conserve in the following than the so-called cooking pears.

Cut up equal quantities of peaches and pears. To each quart of the fruit add the juice of a lemon, or a little more if you wish, and simmer for one-half hour. At the end of that time stir sugar in thoroughly at the rate of a pound of it to each pound of fruit—less can be used for a different effect—and cook slowly for ten minutes, stirring most of the time. Or, better, use a thermometer and cook to 224 Fahrenheit. Stir one-half of this before serving it, to get what may be called either a conserve, a fruit butter, a marmalade or even a fruit honey. So sieved it will be quite as much like a honey as that made with quince. Seal the other half without sieving, to have something like a so-called preserve, a word with a narrower meaning with us than the term conserve.

A variation of such a jam is made by cooking the peel of an orange for each quart of fruit, then cutting it in strips, or mashing it and adding it to the fruit before it is cooked the first time.

George Higginsons to Spend Winter in Rome, Chicago Hears

The George Higginsons moved to Chicago and settled down there from time to time. Their visits to this part of the world have been disappointing. But news of them and their family is always of interest to this country, of which they were valued members for many years.

In the autumn when they close their summer place at Lenox, they will have to don seven pairs of boots to reach their next pied-à-terre. They hear they've taken an apartment in Rome for the winter, and probably will not see them again until spring. Their decision to stay the next few months in Italy influenced, I have no doubt, by the fact that their daughter, Terisa, the Countess Giangiuilo Ruccellai, an attractive young husband will be in Florence for at least a part of the winter, and while these diplomatic wives don't want to descend upon us young newlyweds they are determined to be within commuting distance.

Booking of Italy reminds me that one of our most popular summer spots, Villa Lleresca Borti, is wireless. We may either as soon as the performance at Ravinia is finished or on Monday evening, Villa Borti will be whisked to an eastbound train, and she'll embark for a holiday in Italy. Her first destination is the great Lake Como, where she will spend some time resting from her duties. It is at this same meeting spot, by the bye, that the famous McKinlocks whiled away a portion of their cutting this year.

Villa Borti, thanks to Louis Eckhardt, has become one of our regular summer treats both operatically and otherwise. Her home in Highland Park is a favorite gathering place for social chit-chat, fashionables of the season, and small luncheon parties among the most delightful of warm weather evenings. I understand that she is about to take a house in Lake Forest for the length of the Ravinia tour season—a plan that will meet with the hearty approval of her many fans and admirers there.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGEWAY

things are constantly being heard about alfalfa, which is being more extensively every year in nearly all live stock sections. There is a tendency for farmers to demand and more upon alfalfa and other crops for hays and pastures for their feed cattle.

There seem to be necessary, to make the best general growth of alfalfa; or any other legume, an application of ground lime where the soil is not already too acid, proper fertility of the soil, and adequate seed that is sown in the experience of dairy, farm, and garden men.

Fields that are six or seven years old are showing better results than those under four years, and the experience of dairy, farm, and garden men.

I have about fifteen volumes of "U. S. Reports," "Ethnology," from 1890, which anybody interested in may have.

Harmony of Color
Is Essential to the Well Dressed Woman

In an article in a millinery trade review everyone connected with the industry is advised to keep an intimate knowledge of color harmony and its possibilities.

"Millinery art," says the writer, "should attempt to make the world exclaim not 'What a beautiful hat,' but 'What a beautiful woman!'"

Color, it is claimed, may enhance the wearer's charms by toning down any facial defects in color or form.

The working basis upon which a successful milliner should be told, is to know what makes colors become; to know what makes colors become;

Brown and orange in the same way will take the brownness out of the brunette's skin.

Blue-green will bring out the red in a yellow skin, but will make a flushed complexion look coarse and heavy.

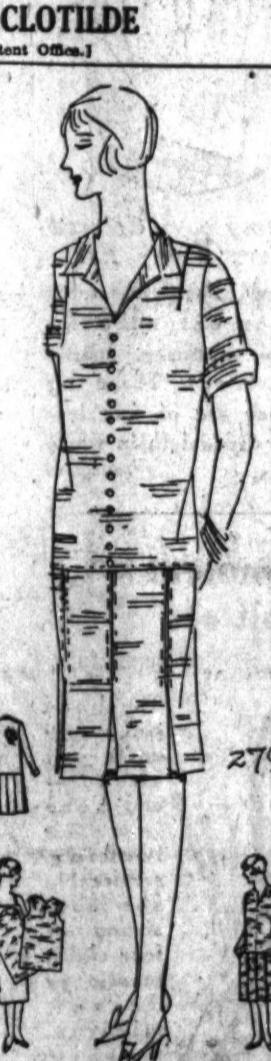

Blue will bring out yellow in brown hair and brown will make gray hair look gray.

People with delicate coloring look best in gray tones. They should never wear neutral colors except when touched with small masses of soft color to accent their personal coloring.

The right tone of pink will intensify the coloring of the skin and lip.

"It must be understood first that color is becoming only when it lifts the skin, makes it look clear and healthy; when it intensifies the color of the skin; when it gives life and color to the hair."

"Color is unbecoming when it deep-

The Wrong One.

My husband and I had been married just a few weeks. He was working in one of our offices downtown for a man much the same build. At 6 o'clock I always called for him to take him to dinner and so it happened this evening. I am nearsighted and on perceiving what I thought was my husband I said, "Honey, come give me my kiss."

Imagine my consternation when he came forward and I realized he was my employer. You can guess that I never call for my husband any more.

WISCONSIN BEER NOW FOAMING TO POLITICAL FAME

Made Red Hot Primary
Issue for Tuesday.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 3.—Volstead has jumped far in front as an issue in Wisconsin's political campaign today and from the moment Tuesday's primaries the battles will be fought over Milwaukee and other areas of pronounced wetness. On both sides much is going to be said about return of the nickel glass of beer to the working-man and others, a matter on which up until now the leading candidates have been treading lightly.

The National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment opened the first full page advertisements headed, "Don't Reward Mr. Lenroot to Washington If You Want Beer."

In big type they told readers in the strong German communities along the lake shore and down the Fox river valley that Senator Lenroot voted for the eighteenth amendment, for the Volstead act, and to override President Wilson's veto of the Volstead law.

Ask Support of Blaine.

They said he is a pal of Wayne R. Wheeler, boss of the Anti-Saloon League, and asked, "Does that record indicate he will help the workingman to get his nickel glass of healthful beer?" They urged support of Gov. John J. Blaine as senator.

The Lenroot camp quickly winced as it read the display, and it was the one big topic. The Lenroot managers have been pointing out that Mr. Blaine himself supported the state enforcement act and that years ago, when mayor of Boscoob, he closed the saloons on Sunday, while during the present campaign he has been quite guarded in expression, handing little more than nonchalant remarks like, "A glass of beer wouldn't go bad with a cheese sandwich" at Kiwanis club blowouts.

What Lenroot Replies.

Lenroot supporters, as counter argument, expect to point out that Lenroot is supported by some of the local leaders of the modification movement, that he has said that he is ready to abide by a referendum, and that in his opinion 2.75 beer as a temperance drink wouldn't violate the eighteenth amendment. The argument they are making is that a new senator would be able to do less than an old hand who knows the ropes.

The final splash in the campaign will be directed most largely against the eastern side of the state, up the lake shore through Port Washington, Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Keweenaw, and down the Fox river valley from Green Bay through DePere, Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh to Fond du Lac. This is the ground covered by Charles E. Hughes in 1916 in his famous loop-the-loop trip in Wisconsin. Particular attention will be paid to Milwaukee and its environs and Racine and Kenosha.

Scandinavian Communities Dry.

The Scandinavian communities in the west and north are held to be dry by the politicians. There is just as much moonshine anywhere else, but prevailing sentiment is supposedly Scandinavian. In the German communities sentiment is at its lowest. Good beer is obtainable without letters of introduction in many places; no thirsty man needs let his throat crack in many of the cities, and there is less concealment than is some other place. In some of the areas of German origin,

LEN NONCOMMITAL ON QUESTION OF 3D TERM AS GOVERNOR

Fair Grounds, Aurora, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—It's too early to talk about a third term, Gov. Len Small said today while on a visit to the Central State Fair. "I have not yet served two years of my second," the governor said, "and I have nothing to say right now about running again."

Concerning the senatorial fight, he said, it was sure that Col. Frank Smith, the Republican candidate, would be elected and that he would make a trustworthy and conscientious senator. "As able a man as has ever held that office from Illinois."

"The senate seat Col. Smith," the governor said, "unless it is going to keep but every representative senator will be elected."

"I was in Washington attending a conference of governors during the investigation of primary expenditures in Chicago, and I didn't see all that went on there, but I am given to understand that there was no evidence or testimony that Smith bought a single vote. It costs a lot of money to run for such an office in a state where there are 4,000,000 voters."

at that, some of the old stock is dry in sentiment, depending largely upon church affiliations, but the region in general is held to be of the wettest sentiment, and both rural and urban dwellers are resentful of the taking away of beer.

Accuse Blaine of Dodging.

Meanwhile, some of the state candidates are yelling that the so-called "Madison ring" is trying to carry water on both shoulders. Gov. Blaine, who has been well supported by his wife Attorney General H. L. Eker, candidate for governor, who is the duelist of drys, W. Stanley Blaine, who is running as an outspoken wet, is making his chief attack upon Eker, and has been a thorn in the flesh of the Blaine-Eker-Young Bob triumvirate.

Tonight all the candidates are happy and contented; they say, one and all, they are sure of winning. The Zimerman forces say it's a pipe they will bust the so-called ring, while the conservative Republicans don't Charles B. Perry, who is accounted best equipped of the gubernatorial candidates, has picked up tremendous speed in the last week.

WISCONSIN TO GET SLUSH QUIZ IF NEEDED: REED

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—United States Senator James A. Reed of Wisconsin has called today on his home from Minnesota to declare the senate committee investigating campaign expenses of which he is chairman, would inquire into the Wisconsin primary campaign expenditures, "if anything should appear worth investigating."

La Follette Declines Comment.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Although he has been repeatedly challenged by Lenroot managers to bring the senate's slush fund investigation committee into Wisconsin, Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. declined to make any comment on the challenge at Stevens Point today.

Senator La Follette spoke at Red Granite last night and at Stevens Point today in support of the candidates of Gov. Blaine for the senate and attorney General Herman Eker for the governorship. Asked whether the slush fund committee would make its hearings in Wisconsin or any other state, Senator La Follette replied:

"We adjourned in Illinois subject to the call of the chairman. I am only a member of the investigation committee and cannot call meetings."

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

D
EAR WAKE. In "The Wake" of Aug. 28, under "Earlier Chicago," I noticed the name G. S. Hubbard. In the early '70s I was a small boy in Iroquois county on my father's 720 acre farm known as the "Belgian Farm." My father was originally owned by the Belgian consul Guedron. S. Hubbard owned a large tract of land southeast of my father's farm and near what was called Old Belgianport.

It was Mr. Hubbard's custom, about twice a year, to drive from Chicago to his farm and he usually spent two nights at our place in making the round trip. He drove a pair of fine horses hitched to a closed carriage, which, he said, cost him $600 to have built. It had a full leather top, was upholstered with heavy broadcloth, and the plate glass windows and doors were curtained with heavy silk.

My father was one of the early breeders of Belgian cattle and when the Belgian cattle market became popular, he sold his herd to a Harsford bull, which he ordered shipped to his other farm near Thornton, Ill. The carriage remained in our family and was in constant use until the advent of the automobile.

Ira L. Gray.

About forty years ago, many local baseball teams played at Rees and Halsted streets, better known as the "Cow Pasture." No mask or gloves were worn in those days. Games were usually afternoons. Sunday meetings and Sunday afternoons. The city league was not formed then.

The writer well remembers one game he umpired between the North Ends and the Heroes, and although all games were played for side bets, it was much safer to umpire than now. Pete Sul was pitcher for North Ends, while the late John Schmitz pitched for the Heroes' battery. Bill Heath Ulrich and Paddy Danaher, no matter who won, were the game all went to a resting place provided them. Indulged in the good old amber fluid and went home satisfied with their day's work.

Among the teams which played on "Paw Prairie" were Henrys, Crooks, Drednaughts, Onward Standards, North Ends, Heroes, Our Boys, Astoria, Lake View Brown, Emmetts and others.

Dempsey Dried Out, Old Pep Gone.

BY HARRY NEWMAN.
(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)

Atland City, N. J., Sept. 3.—(Special) Jack Dempsey did not look good this afternoon when he strolled through his daily stout at the dog track with his awkward squad of sparring partners. It may have been one of those days that come during a champion's training camp.

This correspondent eased over to Harry Greb, the former middleweight and light heavyweight champion, during the matinee and sounded him out.

"I think Gene Tunney has a good chance to win the heavyweight championship," was Harry's response to our query as to how he thought Dempsey looked.

Old Pep Gone?

"Dempsey is not going to have the chin that some people think. He is missing too often and being hit too frequently to fit a champion, and you can't make me believe he isn't trying every second he is in there with those sparring partners. Why, he should be keeping them up, I've said that before and I want to repeat it."

Dempsey looks dried out and he doesn't seem to have any pep left. Where is that old right hand he used to knock them dead with? I haven't seen it in some time."

This, coming from Greb, who has fought Tunney several times, would seem to indicate that the champion is showing the effects of his long lay off from the ring.

Martin Burke and Charley Anderson were the champion's shock absorbers.

Frankie Carpenter and Frankie Bush, a newcomer from Connecticut, also breed for a round each, and the champion's thin shadow boxed and punched the heavy bag.

TUNNEY RESTS FISTS

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 3.—(Special) The road to the title belt of the world's heavyweight will be a long one for Gene Tunney tomorrow in the first of the championship tournaments of the Longwood Cricket club. Tunney defeated Louis N. and Louis Thalheimer of Texas in the first day at 5-4, 7-5, 8-4. Tilden and Chapin advanced to the second day on Thursday.

It will be the first match of the season between these two teams, though the first time that Tilden has met Tunney in doubles play.

Tunney will attempt to accomplish his task tomorrow what he did so well when Johnston in the Davis cup doubles trials at St. Louis.

Tilden and Molla Beaten.

In 1923 Tilden won the Davis cup.

That year he triumphed over Frank Norton. With Richards he won the title that year. Their victory being scored in 1923 when Tilden was 15, and their third in a row.

Belmont.

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special]—A spectacular spill thrilled spectators at Belmont Park yesterday when Jockey Robbins was injured in a fall which was miraculous. It was Robbins' fifth, Double On, that was down in the press of maiden two-year-olds in the Salvator purse. Six yearlings paraded for the event, none of them had never been in a race before.

"Chicago" O'Brien's Inspector C. raced straight across the course to the inside rail, dug his fore feet still into the sand, and stopped stock still.
Jockey Robbins sensed the danger and tried to take a step back but the filly was in full stride and before he could get his hand she ran up on John McNamee's filly, Phantom Fairy.

In the dust-topped mud rolled the filly and her jockey, over and over.
The former scrambled to her hands and knees and started to run after her rivals, but a stable boy sped under the rail and caught her.
Robbins suffered nothing more than a

The World's Largest Store for Women
Advertises Most in The Tribune

Year after year the leading women's wear merchants of Chicago have used The Tribune, often exclusively, to develop a clientele of buyers who demand good clothes and who have the money to back up their demands. Charles A. Stevens and Brothers store for women is an example. This store, the largest in the world catering exclusively to women, has for many years placed more advertising in The Tribune than in all the other Chicago papers combined. Last year The Tribune carried 413,331 lines while the five other papers carried 120,061 lines of Charles A. Stevens advertising.

Clothing Advertisers Value The Tribune Over All Other Papers

Over All Other Papers
Chicago women's clothing advertisers show by the disposition of their advertising that they place a greater value upon The Chicago Tribune than upon all the other Chicago papers combined.
The Tribune's outstanding leadership in this important classification can mean but one thing to manufacturers intent on selling to Chicago women—that The Tribune is the one medium they must use if they are to successfully develop the Chicago Territory.

The Chicago Tribune has gone to extraordinary lengths to secure women readers, to win their confidence, and to induce them to rely on Tribune advertising. The Tribune has been able to gain its unusual influence with its women readers by devoting many years to intelligent cultivation of feature departments which win and hold their interest. One small department on one of the women's pages sells upwards of 150,000 patterns a year at ten cents each to women readers of The Tribune.

Some morning newspapers may have failed to establish themselves with women readers — but The Chicago Tribune, the world's greatest newspaper, has no peer as a medium for selling merchandise to

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

SELLING HERE IS EASIER THAN IN EAST, LEECH TOLD

BY HARPER LEECH.

A valued correspondent of this column who thinks carefully and sells much, says it's easier to sell in the midwest than in the east, and urges that more national sales campaigns should be given their initial tryouts here.

As a rule generalizations are mostly bunk when they deal with the supposed peculiarities of American cities and sections. We all base our opinions on current stereotypes or on some isolated individual observations. The east and western history professors have created a myth that never exists. The wild west books and the movies have made a west all their own. Chicago is called hell-bent—when it is a pan handle's paradise, and a refuge and rescue for those men who are regenerated here when they can't make the grade elsewhere. The east prints the sophisticated books but is largely populated by paupers from the European stocks. And so on.

But for a' that, here's what our salesman has to sell us:

"It is easier, pleasanter and more profitable to sell in Chicago and the midwest than in the east. This is borne out by my own experience and that of many men with whom I have discussed the matter. For instance, in the east a man making 30 calls a day will average between eight and eleven interviews. Twenty calls in Chicago will average from 11 to 14. A man will find the bigger executives in Chicago, and the middle west than in the east. The salesman will be kept waiting a shorter length of time, and on fewer occasions will he be told that the man he seeks is in conference."

Representation clerks, secretaries and butlers are not as difficult to contend with in Chicago as they are in New York. It goes even further than that. In the midwest you get a truer picture of conditions and more reliable statements as to when business may be expected—or they tell you frankly that you are wasting your time. They do not 'stall' as much here as in the east.

"These facts in themselves do not mean much, but they have very great significance for the middle west. It is possible that if a continued effort were made and cooperation inaugurated among all the factories doing business in the middle west, the cost of selling would be still further reduced.

"A man could get more interviews, waste less time and sell more goods, if executives realized that they are also serving themselves when they help a salesman to get through with him in a minimum of time. Such attitudes would mean the ultimate of selling. The present economic waste in manufacturing who are now using New York City as their cast for their private markets or as the places in which to launch selling campaigns to use the middle west, because of the lower cost of doing business here."

FINANCIAL NOTES

A chain of retail service stations extending from Diego, Cal., to Vancouver, B. C., is planned by the California Petroleum Corporation at an investment of about $50,000,000.

A loan of $20,000,000 to the state of Prussia, its first foreign customer, has been arranged by the Bankers Trust Company and Savings bank. The transaction involves the purchase of about $64 per cent bonds which will mature in 1931. Other banking loans will probably be floating the loan are being arranged by the Equitable Trust Company of New York and Mandelbaum & Co. of Amsterdam, Holland.

To further round out its system in Georgia, the Southeastern Power and Light company has purchased the Rome Electric and Light company, which furnishes electric and power and gas service to Rome, Ga., and the vicinity. The acquisition of this company, following the recent purchase of other properties in that state, brings into one ownership practically all utilities operating in midwest and north Georgia.

The United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry company has received an order for 4,000 tons of cast iron pipe from East Hartford, Conn. General Railway Signal company has authorized to install the automatic control devices on the Detroit division of the Pere Marquette railroad.

A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia company, was elected director of the Standard Gas and Electric company. Mr. Robertson was recently elected president of the Philadelphia company to succeed A. W. Thompson, deceased.

Philip Morris Consolidated, Inc., has been organized to merge Philip Morris & Co. and the Continental Tobacco company, each stockholder of the merged companies to get one-half share of class "A" stock and one-half of common stock of the new company for every share held.

Despite the recent increase in crude oil production, the oil industry is in an excellent condition in the opinion of Y. J. Fox, chairman of the petroleum division of the American National Mining and Metallurgical Association, and vice-president of the Red Rock Oil company. The recent cut in wages and the reduction of oil in some localities in Texas, Kansas, and Oklahoma indicates economic pressure, but the reports about the failure of the fields affected to cooperate to keep drilling within reasonable limits.

"Conditions in the trans-Mississippi country are excellent," President Barron of the Colorado and Northwestern on his return from an inspection trip. "Crops in the foothills of the Rockies in Colorado are excellent, while in the eastern part of the state, particularly in the Texas panhandle, the reports are favorable. The reports about the failure of operators in the fields affected to cooperate to keep drilling within reasonable limits."

WEATHER IS BIG BULLISH FACTOR IN GRAIN TRADE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Weather conditions in the United States and Canada were the important bullish factors in the grain market, and unless changed for the better, are expected to bring in more outside business and start a general buying movement to cover shorts and investment. The situation in the market was the reverse of Thursday, with selling pressure limited a good part of the time and buying by professionals a feature. Commission house buying on the whole, was moderate. As the grain markets in the United States will be closed on Monday, there was less disposition to extend commitments and a great deal was given up.

Lowest prices were made early, and in highest around the close, with wheat net gains of 14¢/5¢, corn 14¢/10¢, rye 14¢/10¢ leading, oats 14¢/10¢, and barley 14¢/10¢ to 14¢ lower. Wheat wheat closed 14¢/10¢ lower after showing a decline early of 14¢/5¢.

Rains a Big Factor.

There are heavy rains in western Canada and in the American northwest which will delay threshing and lower the quality of what remains in stock, and delay movement to market. There are numerous cross currents at work in the market, which created an uncertain feeling. North American shipments were estimated at 12,485,000 bu. shipping larger world shipments. Gowell estimated the Canadian wheat crop of the three western provinces at 16,000,000 bu. The movement from farms in western Canada on Thursday was 12,000,000 bu. with 725 cars loaded at country elevators. Wind and weather perhaps will be a big run next week. Stocks at leading points are increasing, while southern hemisphere shipments are light. Export sales were 140,000 bu. It is estimated that French wheat requirements will be 40,000,000 bu. and the estimated crop of France is 16,000,000 bu., a heavy reduction from last year.

Houses who were conspicuous sellers on Thursday were large buyers yesterday. Stop and go down in buying wheat when new low levels on the market breaks, as well as for the season, on September, which touched 14¢/10¢ and closed 14¢ above that figure. December reached 14¢/12¢ as the low point and closed at 14¢/14¢ at the start, finished 14¢ above that price.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

All American grain exchanges will be closed on Monday, Labor day. Winnipeg and Liverpool will be open. The Chicago cotton market is open today, but New York and New Orleans are closed.

There was no disposition to press the short side of grain market operations so that trading today will be mostly in the way of evening up for the triple holiday. There has been an extension of the short interest, however, as liquidation by longs, so that the market is in a position to respond to the news, or to the actions of large operators. Sentiment for the time being is little more mixed.

Until there are positive indications of better weather all over the agricultural regions, there is less disposition to press the short side of wheat and corn. This will be reflected in receipts at terminal markets before the severe wet weather. But in a few days it is expected that receipts will be higher. A big run of receipts will be in the market next Tuesday, representing the accumulation of three days.

The Canadian government weather crop given out late yesterday afternoon, covering conditions at the end of two weeks delayed work because of the rain.
